

Small Scale, Sustainable Livestock & Produce Production

An on-farm workshop for those interested in starting a sustainable farm!

An emphasis of this program will be to show what can be produced on a small amount of land through planning and use of available resources. James and Sharon Helms will discuss raising and marketing poultry and pork on pasture on a small sustainable scale. There will be a short classroom discussion in the warehouse followed by an intensive walk and talk in animal facilities and organic vegetables facilities.

Only 30 spots available!

Registration deadline is APRIL 19, 2019

Reserve your seat today by visiting:

<https://sustainablelivestock.eventbrite.com>

or email wculler@clemson.edu

Date and Time:

Friday, May 3

9:00 a.m. to noon

Location:

Carolina Bay Farms

5301 Lower Richland Blvd

Hopkins, SC 29061

Cost:

No Cost

Should you require special accommodations due to a disability, please notify our office ten days prior to the event.

United States Department of Agriculture
National Institute of Food and Agriculture

