

Feargal Caley

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT MANAGER,
FACULTY OF SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING

Feargal has a professional background in international business development and marketing. His role at Macquarie University is to strengthen the international engagement for the Faculty of Science.

This includes building institutional linkages, developing articulation pathways and joint degree structures, designing student exchange programs and providing information about scientific degree programs to an international audience.

As an undergraduate student, Feargal has spent time studying in the People's University in Beijing and later at Taipei Normal University. After graduating he has worked professionally in Taiwan, New Zealand and UK as well as Australia. Feargal draws upon his international career experience to help guide students to think broadly and carefully about their study choices.
