

Michael Weiss, MPH
Senior Health Economist at Populytics

Mr. Weiss is a Senior Health Economist with Populytics, a Lehigh Valley- based population health and analytics firm, and wholly-owned subsidiary of Lehigh Valley health Network (LVHN). Weiss' areas of expertise include national health policy, population health analytics, reimbursement models, and risk contracting analytics. He has a background in health systems research, and is published in peer-reviewed journals across various medical disciplines. Weiss is on the faculty at DeSales University, Center Valley, Pa., in the Doctor of Nursing Practice Program where he teaches applied biostatistics and epidemiology. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Wagner College, New York, NY, and a master's degree in public health from Rutgers School of Public Health, Piscataway, NJ.