

Dr. Christopher Vick
Coordinator, African-American Latino Scholars
Program (AALSP), Brookline High School

For the past 13 years, Dr. Vick has led the AALSP to provide academic acceleration and cultural enrichment to high achieving students of color and has created a robust college-bound and academically driven culture among black and Latino pupils. The AALSP helps Brookline High School reach its fundamental academic goal, an achievement profile that reflects the diversity of its student body.

As leader of the AALSP, he is able to work toward institutional equity and help mold the next generation of intellectual giants. It is complex, exciting, and ultimately rewarding work.

Dr. Vick received his doctorate from Boston College and his master's degree from Simmons College.

He is an IRT alum.
