

David is the director of Strat2Exec and has over 30 years of experience initially in operations research before moving into professional services at IBM, Accenture and Siemens. He has held senior executive roles including managing director for a US based consulting firm, ICF International which specialised in energy and environment, and COO and Executive Director, Finance and Strategy at Open Universities Australia. He has worked across a diverse range of industries including agriculture, aviation, energy, education, finance and government. In these positions he has worked in Asia, Australia and Europe. His roles include: business analyst; project and program management; business development; general management of IT, finance, operations and strategy; and executive leadership.

He is now is a director of a consulting practice, Strat2Exec, specialising in digital transformation and robotic process automation He has served on the Board of the Melbourne Chapter of the Project Management Institute from 2012 until 2019.

He holds a Bachelor of Science degree majoring in mathematics from University of Melbourne, a Graduate Diploma in Applied Statistics from RMIT University and a Master of Applied Commerce from University of Melbourne.