

Scott Ko - Bio

Scott Ko is a former management consultant with over a decade's experience in project management, innovation, and design. Ever passionate about exploring creativity, human-centred design, and pushing personal boundaries, Scott did a complete 180, leaving that world behind to pursue his own startup.

In 2016, Scott founded ColourSpace Gallery, a social enterprise that uses art to help businesses create dynamic and transformative places to work. It does this by offering an art subscription service that makes changing artwork as easy as changing flowers, with all art curated and sourced from local emerging artists. In 2 short years, Scott has expanded into Sydney, won several prizes, and recently came back from the highly prestigious Collider Accelerator in Brisbane.
