

Andrew Jefferies, Vice President Managed Services, Bulletproof

Andrew Jefferies is the Vice President of Managed Services for Bulletproof. He was a founding partner in Bulletproof and has helped grow the company from its humble beginnings through to the recent acquisition by GLI, that has propelled the company into the international realm. In his current role, Andrew is responsible for all Managed Services at Bulletproof, including their Support Services, Virtual Services and Security Operations Center. He continues his interest in security and also has a passion for customer service and service development.

Outside of the office Andrew is a sailing fanatic, does adventure racing, and messes around with music.
