The Funny Lazy Project Manager

Understanding why it is so important to be 'lazy' when managing projects and what the real value of 'fun' is in team productivity.

The session will cover the definition of productive laziness, the science behind the theory (yes there is some) and will share some personal learning experience that led to the creation of 'The Lazy Project Manager'.

In addition, the audience will consider the three key project stages, one of which the 'lazy' project manager works very hard in and the second they should be in the comfortable position of enjoying the 'comfy chair' safe in the knowledge that the project is well under control, and the final where often some critical work is missed.

Now whilst there is, quite rightly, lots of talk about the serious side of the profession there is a lot less that addresses the more enjoyable aspects of being a great project manager, and so we will also explore the world of 'The Project Manager Who Smiled'.

About the speaker

Peter Taylor is a PO expert who has built and led five global PMOs across several industries and has advised many other organisations on Change and Project strategy. He is also the author of the number 1 bestselling project management book. In the last 5 years, he has delivered over 350 lectures around the world in over 25 countries and has been described as 'perhaps the most entertaining and inspiring speaker in the project management world today'. His mission is to teach as many people as possible that it is achievable to 'work smarter and not harder' and to still gain success in the battle of the work/life balance.
