Breaking Down Barriers 5 Decisions for a Successful Mindset

In his keynote, Matthias Berg takes the audience on a humorous and ambitious tour through his life, to impressive highs and depressing lows. Enriched by anecdotes to smile and stories for reflection, he illustrates that with an energetic mindset the unreachable is closer than one thinks:

if you know about your barriers and break them down.

Mental strength and success have their roots in positive conviction. This mindset is not a gift from the gods but a formed attitude. It transforms complex demands into five clear and simple decisions:

be active - take responsibility - concentrate on your strength - give joy, time and fairness to others - train your self-discipline.

Matthias Berg stands for being a practitioner. In his keynote you can find more than a few hints about what he believes works for an energetic mindset and a successful leadership.

Moreover, with his disability he stands for inclusion and diversity, as a person and in his professional career(s). His credo: “It is not important where fate puts you – but what you make of yourself.”

Plus: You are worried about inclusion and sometimes a bit at a loss with people with a disability? Here you get some friendly clues.
