Confidentiality is a foundation for all interpersonal relationships, not least those between professionals and their clients. The speakers for this event come from a variety of disciplines — education, law, counseling, social work, and faith communities — and can spur your own thinking about ways to enhance confidentiality and trust with the people with whom you work.

Others: All will receive certificates of attendance.

Mental Health Academy is the outreach and programming arm of MHAMT that provides Continuing Education (CEUs) curricula for therapists, social workers, attorneys, and other professionals whose work involves mental health awareness.

Mental Health Academy seeks to offer twelve to fourteen such events a year, focusing on issues relevant to these various professional practitioners. These affordable programs will be held throughout the mid-state area as well as other parts of Tennessee.

The programs, half- or full days, are certified by the professional boards licensing the targeted professions and will generally provide three to six hours of CEU credit each. Speakers are chosen for their expertise in specific areas and their awareness of the current needs among the professions.

Seminar Directions:

From I-65 north of Downtown Nashville, take Exit 92 (Madison/Old Hickory Boulevard) and go east on Old Hickory for approximately 3 miles. (You will cross over Gallatin Road). At the 3rd light, turn right on Larkin Springs Road. Go 0.6 miles and take a left on Hospital Drive. Once on campus, look for the Medical Office Building (MOB), located at 510 Hospital Dr. It is a red-brick building with rounded glass. On the 4th Floor you will find the Magnolia Room where the seminar will take place.

Faculty at a Glance

Nicole Cobb, EdD, is Executive Director of School Counseling for Metro Nashville Public Schools and an Adjunct Professor at Vanderbilt University. She previously worked at Educational Testing Service in Princeton, NJ, and with the State of Tennessee Department of Education. She serves on First Lady Michelle Obama's Reach Higher advisory council.

Richard Bulzacchelli, STD, is Associate Professor of Theology at Aquinas College, in Nashville. He is a popular classroom teacher and public speaker, and is published on topics ranging from medical ethics to Pope John Paul II.
