

Facilitating Good Stakeholder Relationships Through the Languages of Appreciation (Leadership)

Speaker: Sinikka Waugh

Expressing appreciation at work is critical to building healthy employee morale, but sometimes it's easy to forget, and it's even easier to overlook when it's unfamiliar territory. Designed as a realistic and applicable "How-To" guide for busy professionals, this class will help you take those critical first steps to appreciate those around you for the valuable work they do within your organization. The keys to expressing appreciation in a meaningful way are consistency, personalization, and accountability. So how do you express sincere appreciation appropriately in your environment? We'll introduce the 5 Languages of Appreciation and take a closer look at who and where they fit, along with tactical tips to help you get your appreciation across. Designed as a realistic and applicable "How-To" guide for busy professionals, this session will help you take those critical first steps to appreciate those around you for the valuable work they do within your organization.