

Donna Rattley Washington
Vice President of Government & Community Affairs

Donna Rattley Washington serves as Vice President of Government & Regulatory Affairs for Comcast's Beltway Region. In this role, Donna leads government, regulatory and community affairs activities across the Beltway Region. Donna and her team are responsible for cultivating and maintaining relationships with our government and community leaders and helping to position Comcast as the nation's leader in video, high-speed Internet and phone services. Through these relationships, the team plays a vital role in supporting the growth of our residential and commercial business in the Region. The team will continue to leverage national and local partnerships to make investments in organizations that promote community service, digital literacy and tomorrow's leaders, including our partnerships on the Comcast Cares Day, Digital Connectors, and City Year programs.

Donna previously served as Vice President Government & Regulatory Affairs for Comcast in the Metro Washington market where she oversaw all government, regulatory affairs, and community investment initiatives. Prior to joining Comcast, Donna was a partner at the law firm of Cole, Raywid & Braverman, LLP, [currently Davis, Wright & Tremaine, LLP] and has been involved in the communications industry for more than fifteen years.

A third generation Washingtonian, Donna maintains a strong commitment to both business and civic organizations in her hometown. She currently serves on the board of directors for the District of Columbia Chamber of Commerce, City Year Washington, D.C., Women In Cable Telecommunications, and the Greater Washington Urban League. Donna served as Chair of the Board of Directors for Edbuild, an independent, DC-based nonprofit organization that sought to increase the number of high performing schools in Washington, D.C. Additionally, she was a founding parent of Capital City Public Charter School in Washington, D.C.

Donna is a graduate of Brandeis University and Georgetown University Law Center. She has also received a certificate in international relations from the Universite Haute de Bretagne, Rennes, France. She currently resides in Washington, D.C. with her family.
